Chapel of love

You don't have to jet off to a distant land for a fairy-tale wedding – it is just as magical on this nearby tropical paradise. By ANGELIA TEO

Prepare to be mesmerised!

Imagine making your grand entrance on a traditional long-tailed boat, then walking down the aisle of a chapel perched at the edge of a lagoon as the setting sun casts a warm glow on your duchess satin gown. At the Laguna Phuket, Thailand's only island resort with a chapel, such a dreamy wedding can be yours.

The glass-and-teak whitewashed chapel is situated within minutes by boat from the resort's cluster of six luxurious hotels comprising the Allamanda Laguna Phuket, Sheraton Grande Laguna Phuket and Banyan Tree Phuket. It seats 50 guests in either an alfresco setting or in air-conditioned comfort.

Whether your ceremony is simple or lavish, Christian or traditional Thai (fancy a baby elephant as one of the witnesses?), Laguna Phuket's highly professional and experienced team will help make your dream wedding come true. You're talking about pros who can give advice on (and more importantly, carry out) every aspect of your wedding, from the flower arrangements to the aisle decor, photography, food and music.

Couples will even get to enjoy a rejuvenating spa experience to calm nerves before the big day. Things can only get better, so we aren't surprised if the honeymoon is already on your mind. ■
